The UN Women understands that women need the same access to all governmental agencies,

Noting that women are under-represented in government and in the court system,

Emphasizing that women deserve equal rights, the co-sponsors,

1. Encourage women to become more involved in the justice system by creating all women's law schools which include living quarters, childcare, and basic schooling;
2. Establish a new NGO that financially supports school like these around the world; and
3. Graduates of these law schools receive seed money if they choose to continue on the career path of law and government.
