Topic: Situation in Syria

The Human Rights Council,

Expressing its appreciation for resolution 1265, created at the beginning of 2015, which helps with cross-border and cross-line humanitarian access in Syria,

Deeply Convinced that the Syrian Government is a cruel autocratic regime that does not abide by the Human Rights Convention of 1951,

Fully Alarmed by the devastated cities in Syria, by the five year long civil war,

Having Considered the hardship of the Syrian refugees in fleeing to different countries in hope of a better future,

Deeply Regretting The large number of deaths and casualties occurring in outburst conflict,

1. Calls upon nations to choose between accepting refugees and/or pay a large sum of money in order to fund ships (to carry refugees) and other humanitarian aid;
2. Emphasizes the need for Syrians to find employment in the span of two years;
3. Encourages all Syrians to start their own communities;
4. Calls upon the G20 nations to sign a treaty and come together to accept more refugees and thereby distribute the number of displaced refugees among themselves; better quality of treatment and rehabilitation to the refugees they accept; provide employment to refugees specialized in different fields;
5. Urges the UNDP to increase funds to local organizations to provide facilities such as electricity and adequate living conditions;
6. Draws the attention of the Security Council and host countries to increase their security and inspection budget for refugee camps.
