Imagine a world with all of the races segregated into different countries, regions, and continents. Xinhua News Agency is reporting for the Montessori Model United Nations conference in New York about the middle school SOCHUM committee and eliminating racial discrimination with many countries, specifically North Korea's view on this topic.

The world is always changing with everything and will always be changing. People have accepted this, but not the problems of this world. In MMUN 2019, March 22 to 23, Xinhua News Agency is journaling about solutions for this world issue of racism and radical discrimination.

On the day of March 22, 2019, the Montessori Model United Nations Conference of America was held in New York City, United States of America. From ages eight to eighteen, young adults from around the world worked together to discuss, create, and agree on resolutions on a certain topic concerning the world and for the country assigned. At the end of the conference, the committee will write a resolution paper with a few of many different solutions disclosing the given topic.

Eliminating racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia, and related intolerance is the topic of the middle school committee of ages eleven to thirteen. The many delegates had researched about their topic earlier, inside their country. Now that they are at the educational event, the delegates have the opportunity to share and combine the information. Today's committee on the elimination of racial discrimination has created many impactful and intelligent solutions for this issue. The young adults' main ideas to help the world include a positive social media campaign or app with no ability to comment, and a high-quality education for the children to learn and raise awareness about discrimination toward races. The committee believes and hopes that these solutions can help our world.

One of the countries participating in the topic of eliminating racial discrimination is North Korea. For this topic, North Korea believes in an extremely controversial idea for a solution. The thought to cure the racial discrimination is to separate all of the races, placing them into different countries or continents, so the races will not be united but rather be with their own race. The solution may raise questions and lead to major arguments. North Korea's vision for the future is to make sure that no races are intermingled. The country has explained to Xinhua News Agency that if there was a conflict with this resolution, "Korea would not care."

Xinhua News Agency has reported on MMUN SOCHUM 2019 on the topic and their ideas for a resolution. The elimination of discrimination of racism and xenophobia reporting about the multiple countries and getting their perspectives. Also the viewpoint of North Korea's resolution and how they will make Korea peaceful.
